Meme of the week

"Maximum" of two weeks

President Trump said Friday that Iran had a "maximum" of two weeks to avoid possible US air strikes, indicating he could take a decision before the fortnight deadline he set a day earlier. Trump added that he was not inclined to stop Israel attacking Iran because it was "winning," and was dismissive of European efforts to mediate an end to the conflict.

The US dollar had its best week in 4 months

U.S. stock indexes finished the holiday-shortened week narrowly mixed, fluctuating throughout the week amid a slew of headlines regarding escalating tensions in the Middle East. Smaller-cap indexes performed best for the week, followed by the Nasdag Composite, which posted modest gains. On Wednesday, the Federal Reserve kept the funds rate unchanged. The Fed's Summary of Economic Projections showed that policymakers expect to make two interest rate cuts through the remainder of the year, unchanged from their previous projection; however, expectations for inflation and unemployment by the end of 2025 both rose, while projections for GDP growth declined. On Friday, Fed Governor Christopher Waller made comments suggesting the central bank could be in a position to cut rates as soon as July. US economic data releases generally surprised to the downside: retail sales decline while housing starts hit five-year low. U.S. Treasuries generated positive returns as yields across most maturities decreased. The pan-European STOXX Europe 600 Index ended 1.54% lower as BoE held rates steady while SNB cut rates. In Asia, the Nikkei 225 index gained over the week while China stocks retreated. This was the best week for the dollar index in four months. The dollar gain was gold's loss. Oil prices rose for the 3rd week in a row testing YTD highs. Crypto had a tough week ending with some more serious selling pressure on Friday, dragging Bitcoin back to a $102k handle...

Fed holds rates again in 4.25-4.5% target range, still sees 2 cuts by year end. However, there were some slightly hawkish comments and developments:

- The big news > the number of members that do NOT want to cut interest rates this year went from four people calling for no rate cuts to now seven people calling for no rate cut

- With regards to the dot plots, while the Fed sees 2 rate cuts this year (unchanged), the number of rate cuts in 2026 and 2027 went from 2 to 1 - i.e in total the dot plots now signal 100bps rate cut till the end of 2027 versus 150bps previously

Switzerland returns to 0% interest rates (lowering by 0.25 percentage points - as expected). The market believes that the SNB will return to negative interest rates as early as this autumn. Monetary policy must be eased when capital inflows increase and prices have stopped rising (and are even falling at the moment - Swiss inflation turned negative in May, with prices falling 0.1% from a year earlier.). The strength of the Swiss franc is a key contributor to low inflation. "Inflationary pressure has decreased compared to the previous quarter. With today's easing of monetary policy, the SNB is countering the lower inflationary pressure," the central bank said in a statement.

Yesterday the Senate passed the GENIUS Act, the first stablecoin legislation to be approved by either Congressional chamber after several years of trying. The vote of 68 to 30 was the same count as the procedural vote last week. This is a major legislative breakthrough, as it's the first major digital asset legislation approved by the Senate. Assuming that the chambers manage to reconcile the versions, the passage of legislation will provide greater regulatory certainty, a boon for the stablecoin sector. This momentum has already energized markets.

A very bullish tweet by President Trump for stablecoins and digital assets following the adoption of the Genius Act bill by the Senate. The implications of this bill from a macro and crypto adoption perspective are underestimated by markets / investors / consumers. Indeed, some reports project that stablecoins could grow into a multi-trillions dollar market by the end of the decade (versus $300 billion currently). A thriving stablecoin ecosystem will drive demand from the private sector for US Treasuries, which back stablecoins.

Donald J. Trump 😵

The Senate just passed an incredible Bill that is going to make America the UNDISPUTED Leader in Digital Assets — Nobody will do it better, it is pure GENIUS! Digital Assets are the future, and our Nation is going to own it. We are talking about MASSIVE Investment, and Big Innovation. The House will hopefully move LIGHTNING FAST, and pass a "clean" GENIUS Act. Get it to my desk, ASAP — NO DELAYS, NO ADD ONS. This is American Brilliance at its best, and we are going to show the World how to WIN with Digital Assets like never before!

Prices to charter large oil tankers sailing through the critical Strait of Hormuz have more than doubled since Israel launched an attack on Iran last week, amid shipowners' reluctance to risk using the waterway. The price to charter a very large crude carrier — capable of carrying 2mn barrels of oil — from the Gulf to China leapt from $19,998 a day last Wednesday, two days before Israel's attack, to $47,609 on Wednesday this week, according to figures from Clarksons Research. The rise on the route has far outpaced a 12 per cent increase in the wider Baltic Dirty Tanker Index of crude oil tanker rates globally over the same period.
